Clyde Line Shipments Show Diversity of Region's Agriculture

In December, 1929, south Florida's forward jump in diversified agriculture was conclusively shown by the books of the Clyde Line, which with up-to-date record faster ships with up-to-date refrigeration, these improvements encouraging a certain branch of agriculture hitherto neglected. That phase included in the cultivation and shipping of perishable tropical fruits and vegetables.

Last year this company managed to take care of the growers throughout the season, the peak movement period excepted, "Ralph Vervort, the Clyde Line agent at Miami stated.

"Volume increase of Miami's export business is indicated in the following figures:

During the season of 1929-30 this company carried 69,200 packages of vegetables, mostly tomatoes. During the season of 1927-28, 421,225 packages were handled. Although 318,684 of the tomatoes, it is interesting to note that the following vegetables of other varieties were carried:

These were: peppers, 42,114 packages; beans, 30,200; cabbage, 6,831; white potatoes, 6,832; eggplants, 5,608; squash, 3,622; spinach, 358; peas, 348; sweet potatoes, 152; okra, 25; pumpkins, 15; miscellaneous, 8,461.

Still greater strides in Florida production and exporting are revealed in the 1929-30 report.

WEALTH IF THEY HAVE DRAINAGE

Affairs In Broward, Dade Similar To Condition In Palm Beach

Statement of drainage conditions and production possibilities in the lower Glades is similar to that on West Palm Beach canal and Hillsboro canal.

The Walsh company statement follows:

"The condition on the lower North New River canal at 21-mile end and west to the Miami canal in Dade and Broward counties, in the Everglades, and east to the Atlantic, including the coastal cities from natural drainage districts can be effectively drained at relatively little expense, if the most serious of the legislative work create such district, say from Snapper creek to the New River.

"This year the season is still too early to predict with much certainty just what the vegetable and fruit export condition will be. Mr. Vervort said. Many are extremely optimistic quoting the tariff on certain products which hitherto came from other countries like Mexico as the basis for visualizing a tremendous dollar influx in to Miami money channels. Drought in almost all northern states during the summer is also cited.

Horsehoe Found Deep In Michigan Tree Trunk

Grand Rapids, Mich.—Some 600 years ago a traveler on the winding banks of the Michigan River found a horsehoe and tucked it to a tree with a couple of sticks. Last week when John Ball park, found a horsehoe and tucked it to a tree with a couple of sticks. Last week when John Ball park, found a horsehoe and tucked it to a tree with a couple of sticks.

"The present productive heart of this proposed district is in Broward county due north of Miami and about 15 miles from the center of Hialeah and an equal distance west to Fort Lauderdale.

"In the heart of this territory the Walsh Company and the Flamingo Groves Company have now already planted and just completed about 800 acres, or some 65,000 citrus trees running from three to five years of age. In addition the planting of something over 1,000 acres of citrus is now under way by Mr. Lochrie and Mr. Bright of Hialeah being planted last spring the first of what we are told is to be about 400 acres more. Further in small groves of various other crops there is something like 200 acres of citrus already planted, some of which is just coming into bearing. There is also a large acreage of vegetables at the heart of this district in Broward county. Further, an Exchange packing house is already arranged for at the center of the Palm avenue highway at its intersection with the South New River canal highway; this will be built during the summer and spring of 1931, near the Douglas road to Miami in just one mile north of the Palm avenue road.

"All these groves and the vegetable planting referred to lie south of the North New River canal and a portion of them south of the South New River canal.

"The present acreage of the Walsh Citrus Company and the Flamingo Groves Company just coming into bearing about 800 acres, with about 100 acres of the smaller groves already planted, make 1,000 acres of citrus, which it is too conservative to say will produce in No. 1 and No. 2 grades alone 1,000 carloads. To say nothing of the value of the lower grades, there are there from 1,000 to 2,000 carloads of the fruit of the thousand acres, on the average markets of the north, not less than 100 carloads.

HOW POWER WAS TAKEN TO FARMS

Story of A Youth's Vision Realized in Creation Of Oliver Tractor

To the average person driving along the highway, who sees a farmer in the field guiding a tractor, there is little more interesting to the man who farms, the picture is different. There is color, activity and an interest in the romance, the love of the soil, and its possibilities.

To this romance can be traced the beginning of our present day tractors, for it was years ago (July 4th, 1870) that there was born on a farm home out in Charles City, Iowa, a boy who grew up to be a tractor maker.

It was this same boy who dreamed of mechanical power to relieve the burden on man's muscles, and well as that. Driven by his dream he set to work and constructed a small home-made engine that he called the "Moline".

In 1892 he met, at the University of Wisconsin, another Charles H. Parr. Here their acquaintance led to a warm friendship that found them interested in long kindred lines. With a firm grasp of their dreams of a tractor to lighten man's burden, they succeeded in securing the aid of University authorities for research work and soon their graduation, these two farm boys entered into their contribution to the tractor of the world.

First came the Hart-Parr steam tractor, early in 1888; an oil cooled engine that continued to use over twenty years. With a small investment they continued, soon to increase their sales to the extent that demand for more facilities was a necessity; larger room for the tractor was needed.

It was in 1905, after another year, that they had become convinced of the soundness of this new industry of power farming and they continued in pioneering its development, advertising for the first time the word tractor, which was of the large type model, in 1905 came petitions from farmers to these young men for smaller units that would weigh less, develop the same power and turn shorter from which date there has been a steady reduction in size, with a continuation of their policy to develop power, uphold durability at economical costs in operation, and as it is well known, the product of the two cylinder, horizontal type engine, became the standard of tractors of American farms and foreign lands as well.

In 1917, Mr. Hart sold his controlling interest to his original backers, Messrs. Ellis & Ellis, the understanding that he would devote his life work to the development of better tractors and the best finds him laboring to better the conditions for farmers everywhere. Under this new organization, M. W. Ellis, son of C. D. Ellis, was made president, and he too, caught the vision and shared the faith in the future of power on the farm, and which has finally brought about one of the greatest consolidations of pioneer companies, known as the Oliver Farm Equipment Co. Under the Oliver Plan we find the Oliver Chilled Flow Works, known as power builders of the world, over Hart-Parr Tractor Co., pioneers of the tractor; the American Seeding Machine Co., of seeding machines; the grain drill fame, with the Nichols & Shepherd Co., well known as builders of "Red Eye" threshers and combines.

The consolidation has meant more than merely bringing together of these experienced men to talk over their battles—it has made possible for the farmer to obtain from one dealer, an implement for every farm and tillage need; it has gone forward to produce the most modern farm machinery known.

Within a year after the merger of the above companies, Oliver brought out two new four-cylinder tractors, the Row Crop, which can be used not only for plowing and harrowing, but for planting, cultivating, cutting hay, belt work and in fact everything that a farmer needs to do, followed by two sizes of four wheel four-cylinder tractors, which embody every improvement that has been made in the tractor industry and today offer the farmer more horse power, per dollar, and per pound, than any machine of the kind to day built.

This said, T. W. Knight, of the Lake Shore Supply Company, is a brief history of the industry we are representing in this state, and which we felt would be of interest to the public generally. It is truly a romance of the soil, coming as it does from a young boy, Charles Hart, who followed in the footsteps of the horse drawn plows of the years gone by of days in fields, where the sun would rise on one side and set on the side of the furrow.

HUNTERS ARE WARNED TO BEWARE OF TRAPS

R. L. Wall, a member of the board of county commissioners of Martin county, has written the Daily News to make mention of the fact that he has put out 25 traps in the territory north of Stuart, Martin highway between Stuart and Allapattah hills. The traps catch a line of traps three miles long. A dog caught in a trap would die; the traps are so strong that they will hold a deer in one he would be badly hurt.

Smuggle Arms to Palestine in Safes

Jerusalem.—The smuggling of rifles, pistols and ammunition into Palestine between coast and inland walls of Jaffa, is said to have been revealed to the Vienna police by the British consular authorities in Palestine.

Two safes, shipped via Trieste and Egypt, were found to be suspiciously heavy. Investigation showed that the safe with which the safe between the walls is moved. In its steel were rifle barrels and cartridges, which were destined for one or other of the two warring factions in Palestine.

WHAT PEOPLE SAY

"C. C. Klutta, long a resident of Broward, has commended the recommendations made by D. Graham Copeland, member Everglades drainage district board, whose "report on policy" was summarized in a letter printed in The Everglades News. In a letter to the Fort Myers Press Mr. Klutta says:

"At last, it seems that D. Graham Copeland has hit upon a logical (possibly accidentally) produced out of his lethargy toward the Everglades situation. I refer to that portion dealing with the conservation of funds to the public newspapers will grab this idea and start an instant demand that the Everglades district whatever the public buildings fund repay the drainage district any and all funds previously borrowed from the district. I believe it will be shortly found that the papers and not otherwise interested parties of the state will begin to take note and make ready with money, etc. for not repaying such funds. Then, the entire state will eventually become aroused over the controversy—manifestly coming from a different angle than Everglades drainage."

A Pahokee bean grower noticed that he had Bountifuls for sale the buyers wanted Stringless and vice versa. So now, when he has Stringless he asks a buyer what is being paid for Bountifuls and when the buyer says no Bountifuls are wanted and that the demand is only for Stringless, this grower has the Stringless.

There is a Pahokee man who, just a few months ago, if you asked him "just a ham," he would say "Oh, it's just a ham." But this man sold two cars of beans this week at above $2 a hamper and now if you ask who he is you will be told "He is one of our successful farmers and eminent citizens."

LOXAHATCHEE OFFICIALS TO PROSECUTE THIEVES

Fruit thieves will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law, Palm Beach Loxahatchee Company officials said Sunday following the arrest of two men Saturday night in the act of transferring fruit into a truck parked immediately outside of a fence surrounding the grove.

Thieves have been active for the last two months with the ripening of grapefruit and oranges, the officials said. They apparently have not been satisfied with stealing just a few grapefruit or oranges, but have taken them by the truckload. The situation became serious as visits increased and a night watchman was employed. Saturday night the two men were arrested inside one of the groves.

Eight hundred acres are set to fruit which have been maturing for the last few weeks.

ORIGIN OF THE CHRISTMAS HYMN

Hark, the herald angels sing, "Glory to the newborn King; peace on earth, and merrily mild; God and sinners reconciled."

Joyful all ye nations, rise, join the triumph of the skies; with angelic hosts proclaim, "Christ is born in Bethlehem." This Christmas hymn was written by Charles Wesley in 1739, and is the only hymn of Mr. Wesley's that has been admitted to the book of common prayer of the Church of England. This is true in spite of the fact, as an ordained clergyman of that denomination, he was the greatest hymn-writer ever produced by the Church of England. While Charles and John Wesley were the founders of Methodism, they remained clergymen of the established church.

FIVE JAPANESE

Five young Japanese men from California, came through Canal Point this week, stopping over night. They told Pat Carroll they were looking for work as boat pickers and intended to visit Cleveland while they were in the lake region.

CALLERS

To newspaper publishers, the president of the American Association of Advertising Agencies is one of the most important men in the world, and it was an honor to have a call Friday of last week from John Benson of New York, who holds that position. George R. Hilly of Miami was showing the country to Mr. Benson, and the equipment of The Everglades News printing office was one of the sights of the country that Mr. Hilly wanted Mr. Benson to see.

John Dingley, representing C. I. & M. Dingley, representing F. L. Tarbox, formerly of Washington, D. C., accompanied Sam Copper when Sam called the first of the week. They worked together in Washington years ago and they are partners in some investments. Mr. Tarbox is putting in a vegetable crop on section 19 near the west line of the country.

AGED LADY DIES NEAR BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Mary Laura Newsome, who would have been 88 years old December 26, died early Monday morning at the home of her grandsons, Francis W. Cross, after an illness of several weeks. The funeral was held at St. Ann's Catholic church, West Palm Beach, Wednesday at 10 o'clock and interment was made at Woodlawn cemetery.

Mrs. Newsome was the mother of the late Mrs. W. B. Cross, who with her husband lived on Kramers Island up to about 3 years ago. She was a native of Florida.

A sketch of Mrs. Newsome's life was printed in the issue of The Everglades News of November 14.

MUCK FIRES CAUSING HEAVY FALL OF SMOKE

LAKE WORTH, Dec. 11.—A deep muck fire extending over 20 acres in the immediate back country has shriveled Lake Worth and South Palm Beach with a dense fog of smoke for the last two nights.

BRACKETTS BACK

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Brackett have returned to Florida—back to the winter at least. A letter from West Palm Beach says: "Send the paper to West Palm Beach (general delivery) instead of Mimsopolis. We are back for the winter. Mr. Brackett said that when one has spent 12 winters in the south, no more winters in the north for him. We are fine and had a wonderful trip; saw snow and cold weather all we wanted."
